NW Newberry Road landslide repair begins

NEWS RELEASE

Release: March 6, 2019

Contact: Mike Pullen, Communications Office, 503-209-4111, mike.j.pullen@multco.us

A contractor working for Multnomah County has begun a repair of a landslide that closed a rural section of NW Newberry Road in the hills northwest of Portland in 2017. The road is expected to reopen to traffic at the end of March.

NW Newberry Road was one of several west hills roads that were damaged by a major snowstorm in January 2017. A section of the road above Highway 30 became saturated by melted snow and slid into a canyon below. Multnomah County successfully pursued federal disaster funds for the $1.8 million repair, which delayed construction until this year.

Contractor Tapani Inc. of Battle Ground began excavation work in mid February. The contractor will build a rock basket wall that will be anchored into the hillside to support the road above. Work hours are from 7 am to dusk, Monday through Saturday with the potential for Sunday.

The public should be aware that:

NW Newberry Road is closed to all traffic, including bicyclists and pedestrians, in the work zone near 13342 NW Newberry Road

Drivers using the section of NW Newberry Road below the work zone should be alert for dump trucks and heavy equipment accessing the work zone from Highway 30 on this steep, curving and narrow road

NW Newberry Road will be an important detour route for cars and pickup trucks when nearby NW Cornelius Pass Road closes to through traffic for 13 weeks starting in July. A contractor working for Multnomah County will construct a number of safety improvements on NW Cornelius Pass Road. Multnomah County maintains the sections of NW Newberry Road and NW Cornelius Pass Road that will be repaired this year. For more information:
