Weeds to Watch Out For

Late spring is a good time to put some work into to stopping the spread of invasive weeds on your land. Some particularly nasty ones are garlic mustard, scotch broom, Himalayan blackberry, English hawthorn, tansy ragwort, poison hemlock, thistles, ivy and holly. (photos at: <https://www.srnpdx.org/>) They all spread rampantly, some are flammable, some are toxic to animals, some are very thorny, and they all crowd out native plants.

The goal this spring is to eliminate those in flower before they set seed, especially garlic mustard and scotch broom.

A great resource for science-based information on integrated pest management of problem weeds is the OSU Master Gardener service. Contact a Metro Area Master Gardener via an online form, email or phone. You can also find species-specific info in the Resource Directory: <https://www.srnpdx.org/land-stewardship.html>.

Your family and your neighbors will thank you for spending some time controlling invasive weeds on your land.

About the Newsline

Skyline Rural Watch Newsline is a part of Skyline Ridge Neighbors (SRN) and has been produced since June 1994 as a means to communicate neighborhood information. The Newsline is produced by Laurel Erhardt (editor) with help from Miles Merwin, Libby Merwin, and Sen Speroff.

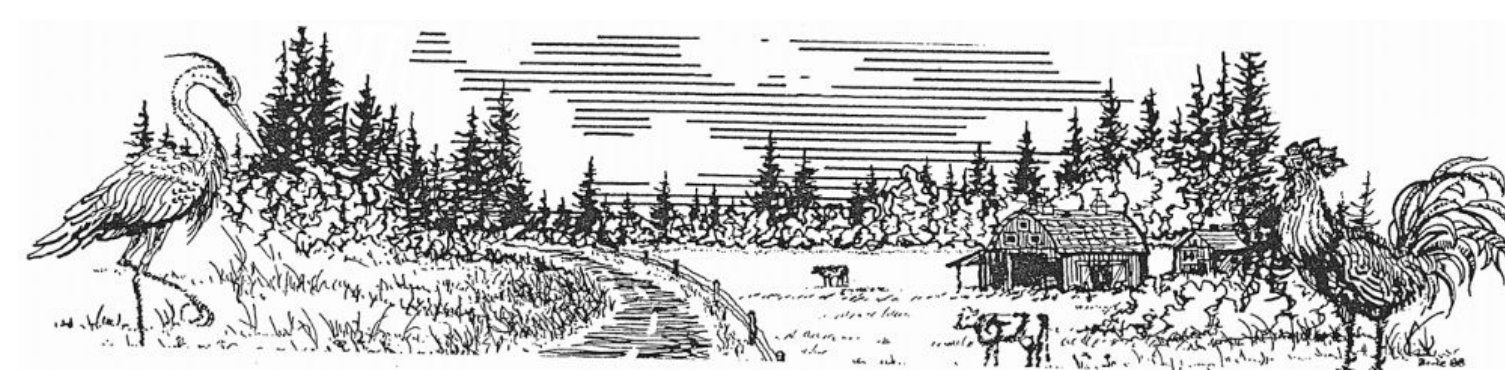

The Newsline depends on you as a source of accurate information about local crimes, upcoming events, and other news pertinent to the area. If you have information you would like considered for the Newsline, you may do so by e-mailing the information to newsline@srnpdx.org, or leaving a message at (503) 621-3501. Urgent, timely items (crimes, lost pets) should be emailed to alert@srnpdx.org. If you would like more detailed information about any item on the Newsline, request that information & SRN will e-mail it to you if available.

You can subscribe to the Newsline at the Skyline Ridge Neighbors website, SRNPDX.org. Tell your neighbors about this free Newsline service.
